or the adoming house, killing four citizens, in ritally weending two, and slightly injuring one. Statements regarding the cause of the firing are very conflicting; one being that a pistol-shot fired from the window of the house corner of Seventh and Locus, took affect in the shoulder of one of the captains when he gave the order to fire. Another that a soldier accidentally discharged his rifle in the ranks, at which the whole company became frightened and fired a full volley at the crowd on the sidewalk and in the windows of the houses. The Recorder's Court was in session and crowded with prisoners and spectators. Police officer I tratt was shot in the side and dled in ten minute. Deputy Marshal Frazer received three shots in his legs and will unboubtedly dis. The names of other persons who were killed on the pavenent below were not ascartain d. The window just behind Recorder Peer's desk was rallted with bullets and broken glass scattered over his desk. Bodies of the killed were removed to the Health Office, where a thorough investigation of the allair will be given.

to assist the civil authorities in the maintenance of the Government and of the l'nion and the enforcement of the constitutional laws of the country. By the precipitato flight of Gov.C. F. Jackson and others, you have been left without State authority with the Government. This state of things would have produced lawlessness and an archy, and all the consequent evils. It has then been deemed necessary to supply this lack by appointing a Commander of this place, having surveillance over the Gizens and its vicinity. I therefore call upon the city authorities, as well as the authorities of their official duties, and I will be always ready to render them may assistance 6416 poll of 12,001 votes. If our Union friends will exert themselves as they ought to do, we can give him a larger majority now in Jefferson county than its entire aggregate vote cast reason why he should not have 10,000 majority in the district, for we cannot believe that many persons will be deluded into throwing away votes upon Mr. Bruce who stands no more chance of election than a minie rifle ball would stand of hitting the sun, if nnv one should be foolish enough to try the target. A vote for Mr. Bruce will be regarded and proclaimed as a vote to abandon the neutrality of Kentucky and declare for secession. We believe him to be a very estimable young gentleman; amiable he certainly is, or he would nover allow the disunionists to use him in a contest which they know is hopeless; but his hest personal friends rannot vote for him, for any support afforded to him is prneticully giving aid and comfort to The secession cause. There ought to be nearly tificen theusand voters in our district, and we suppose there will be some whose old party propositives will induce them to oppose Mr. Mallory, and there will be some Knights of the Golden Circle and a few of the Courier's rabid readers who will support Mr. Bruce, but we d ar't believe the secession candidate will receive as many votes in the entire four counties as Mr. Holt did two years since in the city our friends to try the experiment.

What we ilate to Learn,—One thing very showly learntly most human beings is, that they are of no earlily consequence beyond a very small circle indeed, and that really nobody is ure of no earthly consiquence bevend a very small circle indeed, and that really nobedy is thinking or talking about them. Almost every commonplace man and woman in this world has a vague but deeply-rosted belief that they srequite different from anybody else, ond, of course, quite superior to anybody else, lt may be in oddy one respect they fancy they are this, but that one respect is quite eufficient. I believe that, if a groceror sik mercer in a little fown has a hundred customers, each separate customer lives on under the impression that the grocer or sik mercer is propared to give to him or her cartain advantages in buving end selling which will not be eccorded to the other interty—the customers, "Say it is for Mrs. Brown and be will give it a little better." The grocer, keenly alive tu the weakness of his follow-creatures, encourages this notion. "This tea," he says, "would be four and six-pence per pound to any one else, but (you it is only four end three pence." Judging from my own cheserveithen. I should say that retail dealers trade a good deal upon this eingular fact in the constitution of the human mind, that it is inexpressibly eiter to mest people to believe that they stand on the ordinary level of humanity—that, in the main, they are just like their neighbors. Mrs. Brown would be filled with unniterable writh if it were represented to be that the grocer treats her precisely as he does Mrs. Smith, who lives on one side of her, and Mrs. Snooks, who lives on the other.

She would he etill more engry if yon asked her what earthly reason there I why she should in any way be discingui had beyond Mrs. Snooks and Mrs. Snooks an inexpressibly bitter to mest people to believe that they stand on the ordinary level of humanity—that, in the main, they are just like their neighbors. Mrs. Brown would be filled with unniterable writh fit if were represerted to her that the greer treats her precisely as he does Mrs. Smith, who lives on one side of her, and Mrs. Smoks, who lives on one side of her, and Mrs. Smoks, who lives on the other.

She would he eill more engry if you asked her what earthly reason there is why she should in any way be distinguithed beyond Mrs. Smoks, and Mrs. Smith. She takes it for granted she is quie different from them, quite amperior to them. In man boinered to not like to be classed—at least, with the class to which they belong. To be classed at a lie pelnful to an average mortal who firmly believes that there nover was ench a heing lithis world. I remember one of the claverest freends I have—one who assuredly cannot be classed tile leveluily, except in a very small end elevated class—telling me how mortified he was, when a very clever boy of elateen at being classed at a He had fold a literary larly that he admired Tennyson. "Yes," said the larly, "I am not surprised at that; there is a class of young men, indeed! Was it for this that I onistripped all competitors at school, that I have been fancyling myself a unique phenomenon in nature, different at least from every other being that lives, that I should be speken of as one of a class of young men, indeed! Was it for this that I onistripped all competitors. Now, in my friend's high playful remin cence, I see the exemplification of a great feet in the proposal state of the same and the proposal controlled in the proposal young man?" Now, in my friend's haif playful remin cence, I see the exemplification of a great fact in human nature.—Attantic Monthly.
